Warsaw, Richmond County, VirginiaOwner: Richmond CountyDate of erection: 1748-49Builder:Architect:Present condition: GoodDescription:

In 1935 the building, which was formerly of a simple rectangular one-room plan, was extended by a wing in the rear. The structure is one-story high with a loft in the attic and has an inside end chimney. The material is native brownstone, exposed below the water-table, with garnetted joints. Above the water-table the walls are plastered and whitewashed. In elevation the front is three bays wide with a center door and flanking window openings. All woodwork seems to be modern. The flat arch of the doorway has a raised, fluted keystone. In the south gable end there are two narrow eight-light openings flanking the chimney, which above the ridge is of brick.
